

4

ANSWER

No. It is wrong to submit or copy from any work that has already been submitted previously even if it is your own - this is called self-plagiarism and is a form of cheating.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

3

ANSWER

C. All of these sources need to be cited and referenced

Any information that is not your own, no matter what the source needs to be referenced.

Search for your institution's referencing guide for information on how to cite and reference any source of information.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

2

ANSWER

C. It is never acceptable to purchase assignments.

This type of misconduct is called "contract cheating" and the penalty is likely to be automatic failure of the subject.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

1

ANSWER

C. You must reference using the person's surname, year and date

The UTS Harvard referencing guide advises that personal communications must be referenced. Communications may be emails, letters, phone or in-person conversations.

Search for your institution's referencing guide for information on how to cite and reference any source of information.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

8

ANSWER

E) None of the above are acceptable

Any sort of falsification or fabrication is not acceptable.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

7

ANSWER

D. Explaining the original work in your own words and in a more condensed form

When you paraphrase an original source, you should express the work in your own words and the underlying meaning must remain the same. Paraphrasing also requires condensing the original source.

Check out your institution's library and study skills resources website for more information on paraphrasing.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

6

ANSWER

C. You reference lecture notes in the same way as referencing a web page

The UTS Harvard referencing guide advises that you should cite lecture notes with the author, year, title, subject number, source (such as PowerPoint), UTS as the publisher, date you viewed the source and URL.

Search for your institution's referencing guide for information on how to cite and reference any source of information.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

5

ANSWER

Yes, you are.

However it is best to avoid taking them with you. Get your friend to talk you through them and make notes of your own. This will help you learn the content rather than just memorising.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

1

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

When using information from a personal discussion or communication in your writing - what is the appropriate referencing?

- A) No referencing is required because it is not a written source
- B) Use the class name and number in the reference
- C) Use the name of the person, year and date of the discussion

2

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

Is it ever acceptable to purchase assignments online?

- A) Yes
- B) When your assignment is less than 20% of the total mark for the subject
- C) Never

3

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

Are you required to reference information from media sources such as newspaper articles, online newspaper posts, press releases or media releases?

- A) None of these need to be referenced
- B) You only need to reference material from newspaper organisations
- C) All of these sources need to be cited and referenced

4

Select one response.

You have failed a subject and you are attempting it again. The requirement for your major assessment is the same. Rather than write a new piece of work, you submit the one you used last session to save time.

Is this acceptable?

Yes / No

5

Select one response.

You missed class due to illness, are you able look at someone's lecture notes to see if you missed anything?

Yes / No

6

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

How do you cite lecture notes in your assessment tasks?

- A) You cannot use lecture notes as a source in assessments
- B) You reference lecture notes the same way you would a book or book chapter
- C) You reference lecture notes in the same way as referencing a web page
- D) You do not need to include a reference when you use lecture notes

7

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

Which of the following options is the acceptable method for paraphrasing?

- A) Using the thesaurus to change a few key words
- B) Explaining the original work in your own words in a longer way
- C) Expressing the original work in your own words but changing the underlying meaning
- D) Explaining the original work in your own words and in a more condensed form

8

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

When research is required for an assignment - which of these are acceptable?

- A) Falsify data or reports
- B) Falsify interviews
- C) Make up sources or references
- D) Manipulate data or research to support your desired answer
- E) None of the above are acceptable

12

ANSWER

A, B, C and D.

For students excluded or suspended from university, this will appear on your academic transcript.

Professional associations can apply to check the record of a UTS graduate. You may be prevented from joining some professional bodies if you've engaged in misconduct and found guilty.

In some instances, your institution's must notify the Department of Immigration.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

11

ANSWER

E. Any of the above.

The penalty for misconduct varies according to the severity and intention to cheat or mislead.

No warnings are provided - all students should be aware of the rules surrounding academic integrity.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

10

ANSWER

C. Each student is individually responsible for reading and understanding the rules related to academic integrity.

Not knowing the rules is not an acceptable reason to engage in misconduct.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

9

ANSWER

None

Plagiarism extends to all manner of works and does not exclude speeches, designs or images. Any work that is not your own must be acknowledged appropriately.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

16

ANSWER

C. Put the material in quotation marks, put an in-text reference after the quote and include in your reference list

When you include material that is directly taken from a source (included word for word) - it must be identified as a direct quote by quotation marks and reference.

If you put the quote into your own words, this is paraphrasing and should also be referenced.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

15

ANSWER

No

When paraphrasing - the way you express the author(s) work must be different than how they phrased it, even if the reference is included.

Check out your institution's library and study skills resources website for more information on paraphrasing.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

14

ANSWER

C. Sources must be recognised

Even when paraphrasing, we must acknowledge the original source of the material.

Check out your institution's library and study skills resources website for more information on paraphrasing.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

13

ANSWER

B. Use the lecturer's surname, year, and date of the lecture in text, but do not include it in the reference list

Spoken words by the lecturer are referenced similar to personal communications. They are not included in the Reference list because it is not a source that others can publicly access.

Search for your institution's referencing guide for information on how to cite and reference any source of information.

If you had the correct answer, move forward one place on the board

9

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response*

Which of the following can be copied and not classed as plagiarism?

- A) Written words
- B) Images
- C) Designs
- D) Speeches
- E) None of the above

10

Select one response.

There are serious penalties for academic misconduct. Whose responsibility is it to inform students of rules and regulations related to academic integrity?

- A) The subject coordinator
- B) The tutor
- C) The student

11

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response*

Which of the following may be applied as a penalty for misconduct?

- A) The university takes back a degree that they have granted
- B) Termination of your enrolment
- C) 0 awarded for the assessment item
- D) 0 awarded for the subject
- E) Any of the above

12

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response*

Who can find out if you've been found guilty of academic misconduct?

- A) Anyone - if you've been excluded or suspended from your institution because of misconduct, it states this on your transcript
- B) Employers or professional associations who make enquiries to the university
- C) Academic staff, upon request
- D) Department of Immigration
- E) All of the above

13

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

How do you reference words spoken by your lecturer in your written work?

- A) No referencing is required because it is not a written source
- B) Use the lecturer's surname, year, and date of the lecture in text, but do not include it in the reference list
- C) Use the lecturer's surname, year, and date of the lecture in text, and include it in the reference list

14

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

When paraphrasing, from one or multiple sources, is it necessary to acknowledge the original source(s)?

- A) No - you're using your own words, so it is your own new work
- B) No - because you are not directly quoting the material
- C) Yes - you must acknowledge any material that is not your own original work

15

Select one response.

You've paraphrased an original source by changing a few words and shifting sentences around. You have the correct reference.

Is this acceptable?

Yes / No

16

*Multiple choice question.
Select one response.*

What is the correct referencing method when you want to directly quote a written source?

- A) Put the material in quotation marks and include the source in your reference list
- B) Put the material in quotation marks, put an in-text reference after the quote only
- C) Put the material in quotation marks, put an in-text reference after the quote and include in your reference list